

Pierce County:

A Unique Place to Call Home

Pierce County is home to big cities and small towns as well as national parks and local trails. This unique place I've called home my whole life has provided endless activities and places for me to explore. Pierce County is especially unique because of the amount of city landscape and matching forest landscape

There is a lot of open space in Pierce County to explore and there are many attractions that visitors can utilize to learn about even the remote places in our county, such as Pioneer Farms and Northwest Trek. Visitors can even escape civilization altogether and head to Mt. Rainier National Park to take in the views and breathe the mountain air, all without leaving the County limits. If visitors are more drawn to the city life, Tacoma hosts the Washington State History and Glass Museums as well as breathtaking views of the Puget Sound. This area truly has something for everybody,
